DAY 3: BANGKOK – AYUTTHAYA – PHITSANULOK

After breakfast,

Departure for Ayutthaya, Ancient capital of the Kingdom of Siam. The city was founded in 1350 by Ramathibodi I and became the capital of his kingdom. Its ruins have been transformed into a historical park, and the new city was rebuilt a few kilometers further east. This archaeological park, a UNESCO World Heritage Site, presents a collection of remains characterized by its prangs (reliquary towers) and its gigantic Buddhist monasteries, which give an idea of the grandeur of the ancient capital and the splendor of its architecture.

Lunch at the local restaurant.

Continue by road to Phitsanulok, passing through Chainat. Stop to visit the Crystal Temple, Wat Tha Sung. This small temple, long forgotten on the banks of Sakae Krang, experienced a real boom under the influence of the monk Luang Pho Ruesi Ling Dam. Today, this complex with its unique architecture includes many buildings, including a large meditation park bordered by a surrounding wall of hundreds of Buddha statues, the Prasat Thong Kham nicknamed "the golden pyramid" and its famous glass chapel Viharn Kaeow.
